
Heather Bellini

Global Investment Research
New York

Heather is the business unit leader of the Technology Research Group, as well as an equity research analyst covering the Software sector and select Internet-related companies. She joined Goldman Sachs as a managing director in 2011 and was named partner in 2012.

Prior to joining the firm, Heather was a senior managing director and head of technology research at International Strategy and Investment from 2009 to 2011. Earlier, she was head of technology research as well as a software analyst at UBS from 2003 to 2009.

Heather earned a BA in Economics from Denison University and an MBA in Finance from Columbia University. She is a CFA charterholder.

