2. Client classification

Based on the information available to Goldman Sachs and for the purpose of the provision of the investment banking and corporate finance services to be provided to you going forward and in accordance with any engagement letter agreed between us from time to time (the “Services”), Goldman Sachs has categorised you as a retail client for the purposes of Sec. 67(3) of the German Securities Trading Act (Wertpapierhandelsgesetz) and other applicable rules (together, the “Applicable Rules”). Unless Goldman Sachs hears from you to the contrary, Goldman Sachs shall conduct business in respect of the Services with you on this basis.

You may have the right to request categorisation as a professional client in writing where permitted by Applicable Rules. If you request categorisation as a professional client and Goldman Sachs agrees to such categorisation, Goldman Sachs would no longer be required by Applicable Rules to provide certain protections applicable to retail clients to you. Such protections include the requirement that Goldman Sachs provide to you, and you receive from Goldman Sachs, certain information about financial instruments and in connection with the Services.

You agree and acknowledge that you are responsible for keeping Goldman Sachs informed about any change that could affect your client categorisation.

3. Investment services of the bank

Goldman Sachs provides the following ancillary investment services in the Investment Banking area:

- 3.1. The consulting of companies on capital structure, industrial strategy (and advisory) and a range of services for corporate acquisitions and mergers, and
- 3.2. Services related to the financing business.

4. Note on the risks and properties of financial instruments

- 4.1. Clients should only conduct transactions with financial instruments if they have the necessary knowledge and experience and can assess the associated risks. Clients should also reassure themselves that the product is suitable for them in light of their investment targets, risk appetite and other personal and financial situation.
- 4.2. Goldman Sachs provides its clients with standardised basic information on financial instruments and the associated risks on request.

5. Conflict of Interest Management

- 5.1. Goldman Sachs and the Goldman Sachs Group companies provide investment services for a large number of clients and conclude transactions with various clients, counter parties and for its own account. There may be situations where Goldman Sachs or the Goldman Sachs Group companies hold own interests in transactions on which it is advising a client. Goldman Sachs takes precautions to ensure that there is no expected detriment on the interests of the client. To avoid such situations, Goldman Sachs may also refuse to become active for the client.
- 5.2. In particular, Goldman Sachs Group has rolled out global policies for handling conflicts of interest (a summary can be provided at the client's request) and set out procedures and measures for the early identification and avoidance of conflicts of interest. These precautions also include the creation of confidentiality areas and the oversight of the disclosure of information, suitable organisational structures and supervisory functions and regulations on employee remuneration. The policies also specify that Goldman Sachs informs the client of a potential conflict of interest in a general form under certain circumstances.

6. Complaints management

Goldman Sachs has internal procedures for an appropriate and rapid processing of complaints. On request, the client is provided with detailed information on the procedures to be observed when processing a complaint. Clients are requested to contact Goldman Sachs's Compliance department at the address specified under item 1.1 in the event of a complaint.

7. Recordings of telephone calls and electronic communication

Telephone calls and electronic communication between Goldman Sachs and the client may be recorded.

8. Costs and Charges

The costs and charges actually incurred are determined by the services provided and are agreed individually with Goldman Sachs. Information on the other remuneration and costs incurred are listed in the client agreements. In addition, further costs, for instance taxes, may arise.
